

CANNABIS INDUSTRY IT SERVICES

Maintain compliance and improve security without losing focus on growing your business.

Cannabis is a very competitive, highly regulated industry. Fast-growing Cannabis enterprises, whether on the ancillary or seed-to-sale side, need to thoroughly evaluate and properly integrate the right technology infrastructure into their business model. The alternative will only lead to data breaches, ransomware attacks, system failures, operational delays, and money loss.

To maintain your IT environment requires the attentiveness and accessibility of a highly skilled staff of IT professionals. IT4Cannabis, a division of Infoaxis, Inc., recognizes that technology may not be top of mind for many cannabis operators, because they're hard at work taking care of the other areas of their business. Furthermore, it can be difficult to know what is needed and where to start, and the burden of trying to train and retain an internal IT team is extremely costly and time consuming.

After recognizing the industry's growing need for technology services, we decided it was time to create a suite of Managed Services solely dedicated to the business needs and regulation standards for the Hemp, CBD and Cannabis world. The IT4Cannabis team designs and implements IT infrastructure, both on premise or in the cloud, that keeps organizations secure and compliant.
